

Great Prize Race Closes at 8 O'clock Next Saturday Night

Speed Up--You're On Final Lap in Big Race

Only Four Days Left to Decide the Winners of the Ford Sedan And Other Valuable Prizes. Get Busy and Win.

DOUBLE VOTES UNTIL 6 P. M. SATURDAY

Hand Your Favorite a Subscription Today. Don't Let Her Lose For Lack of the Votes Your Subscription Would Bring.

But four days remain to decide the winners of the Ford Sedan and other valuable prizes offered in The Advocate's big Automobile and Prize Campaign. The race up to the present date, seems to be very close—so close that if the race ended today, instead of Saturday, just a few subscriptions would be the deciding factor in determining the winners of the grand prizes. Hence, these prizes may be won or lost on the work done the last four days of the campaign.

With the race so close, every candidate should do his or her utmost to secure all possible subscriptions, for it may be you only need a few subscriptions to win the very prize you most desire. Stick to the finish—right up until the closing hour—and be a winner at all hazards.

There is honor and profit in winning. There is satisfaction in knowing that you have gratified the hopes of yourself and friends who have helped you so loyally and you should not give way to indifference or appearance of defeat until the last vote has been cast and counted. The manager of the campaign has seen many a candidate fail to win a grand prize by losing hope and giving up in despair, just at a time when her efforts were being crowned with success. All the world loves a person who fights to the very last to win and one who can win or lose after a good fight and be ready to give a friendly hand to all, be they winners or losers.

Who Will Be the Winners?

Who will prove to be the winners of the Ford Sedan and other valuable prizes next Saturday, is the problem now confronting the people of this section. Many are the guesses that have been made on the outcome of the big race, but these are simply guesses as no one can tell who are winners until the judges have completed the final count on Saturday night. Meanwhile, every candidate has a chance for victory.

As the race now stands they are at the three-quarter pole in a neck-and-neck race, so the work done the next four days will undoubtedly decide the winners.

Don't Be Too Confident

Overconfidence is the biggest handicap under which a candidate can labor. It causes more regret than anything else in a campaign of this kind. The only possible way to make sure of winning is to spend every possible minute between now and the close searching for subscriptions. Perseverance is a winning quality and coupled with energy, will bring you to the top. Let your campaign be a whirlwind one for the short time remaining. See as many people as you can; do not let any possible opportunity to secure subscriptions pass by unnoticed. Even though you may have a leading position today, don't be too confident. There are several away down on the list who may surprise their friends show-down. and competitors when it comes to a Double Votes—6 P. M., Saturday

It seems as though almost all candidates took advantage of the big Triple Vote Offer which closed last night and this very fact keeps the contestants close in line and makes the outcome very much in doubt.

Now we come to the last week's vote offer and with the race so close the candidates who expect to win cannot afford to let up for a minute, for just one or two subscriptions may be the deciding factor in the final count.

Double Votes—just twice the schedule below—will be given on both old and new subscriptions TURNED IN BEFORE 6 P. M., ON NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT, July 30TH.

Between 6 and 8 o'clock Saturday night, the last two hours of the campaign, only the regular schedule will be given on subscriptions.

Montgomery Co. Fair Was a Huge Success

Saturday marked the close of the Great Montgomery County Fair for 1921, and to say that the Fair was a decided success in every way is but expressing the opinion of the thousands who attended, in a mild manner. This year's exhibition was undoubtedly an improvement over that of last year, the feature attractions being the harness and running races. The crowds that attended, although not as large as in 1920, fully came up to the expectation of the management. The weather was ideal and the Fair, taken as a whole, was one of the best ever staged by the local association. The Midway was considered one of the largest and cleanest ever in our city and was visited by thousands during the week. The Floral Hall proved quite a drawing card and was the center of much interest. The show rings, although few in number, were quite interesting.

The gate receipts were not as heavy as last year, but it is believed it was a success financially as well as otherwise. This fact indeed speaks well for our Fair, as every other fair held in Kentucky this year has been a money loser, and we are proud to know that our citizens are sufficiently interested in this community to attend their own county fair and to see that their friends from distant points have an opportunity to do likewise.

Wage Problem Vital One

It is generally acknowledged that high wages are economically beneficial. High wages mean greater purchasing power, consequently greater production, and in turn full and steady employment and the increase and wider distribution of comforts and luxuries. It is obvious to a mere tyro in economic theory that the prosperity of the workers, constituting the great mass of the population of a country, is the prime essential in the promotion of the general welfare and progress of a nation. In the last analysis the men who work with their hands, including the farmers, "build the fabric of the world."

But the war and its reactions have convinced most thoughtful and candid minds that the wage scale can be raised to artificial and injurious levels. A high wage scale does not always mean high wages. Such a scale increases the cost of production, raises commodity prices, and in consequence reacts upon the man who labors, cutting down the purchasing power of his dollar and making it worth fifty cents, or thirty-five cents, instead of one hundred cents.

Sooner or later, in order to restore the economic balance, deflation sets in, production falls off with the depreciation of the dollar, factories and mills close, unemployment becomes rife and in turn the loss of purchasing power on the part of hundreds of thousands of men out of work reacts on the market with disastrous effects for all concerned.

There must be the maintenance of a right ratio between the wage scale, the purchasing power of the dollar, the efficiency of labor, and the cost and total volume of production.

We cannot have our cake and eat it, too. With the wage scale lower and industry running on full time, with every man at work, the laborer as well as every other man, would be better off than with the wage scale maintained at an abnormal level, but with chimneys cold, wheels silent, and men out of jobs. Wages have been uneconomic, raised by fiat, as it were, regardless of the laws which govern industry and trade, and the workers themselves are the chief sufferers now that the inevitable process of equilibration has set in.

Before we shall pass out of the present depression wages will have to come down, men will have to work longer hours and produce more, and the dollar with which all are paid, will have to appreciate very considerably in value. Whatever is artificial and fictitious; whatever is dishonest and unfair; all that is tainted with greed and that springs from the anti-social spirit so manifest during the war period, must be banished, and a genuine revival of old-fashioned thrift, enterprise, honor, decency and faithful and sustained effort must be experienced.

The fish in other streams are bright, They're a pretty wise lot, I'll state; But the fish in the Stream of Life will bite At most any old kind of bait.

What Are Men Made Of?

Some ingenious calculator has prepared the following formula of the ingredients which constitute a man:

Fat enough for seven bars of soap.

Iron enough for a medium-sized nail.

Sugar enough to fill a shaker.

Lime enough to whitewash a chicken coop.

Phosphorus enough to make 2,200 match tips.

Magnesium enough for a dose of magnesia.

Potassium enough to explode a toy cannon.

Sulphur enough to rid a dog of fleas.

All of these can be bought, at the present high price level, for ninety-eight cents.

The only objection to this statement is that the intangible and intangible but vital things in man have been omitted—the qualities which persist after all these material elements have been mingled with the dust and forever lost. Memory, and imagination, and reason; the power of thought, the gift of song, the instinct of worship, the emotion of love, the passion for justice, the quality of loyalty, the spirit of self-sacrifice are wholly differentiated from chemical elements and material substances.

None of the things which are enumerated in the above table can adequately account for the art, and literature, and music of the world; for the family and the home; for the discoveries and inventions; for the status of Phidias, the poems of Homer, the tragedies of Shakespeare, the contrivances of Edison.

Man has a body of animal origin and structure, but something has been superadded which lifts him above himself and makes him "little lower than the angels, crowned with glory and honor."

Materialism when it climbs to the topmost of these steps of a chemical formula never so much as gets its head above the primeval slime. Man belongs to another sphere and claims another origin. There is a divinity which stirs within him, and the time-vesture cannot conceal from him an eternal destiny.

Fattening Market Birds Brings Big Profits

Profits from poultry on many Kentucky farms could be increased by feeding cockerels a fattening ration several days before they are placed on the market instead of selling them while they are in thin condition, according to poultry specialists at the College of Agriculture. Feeding the market birds a ration of this kind not only makes a bigger bird, but also one which will have higher quality as a broiler or roaster. The most expensive part of rearing a chick is building the frame and the most profitable part that of putting on the flesh or fat. As a usual thing the poultry raiser does the costly work of building the frame and then leaves the profit to the packer or the dealer who increases the value of the bird by a few days of proper feeding.

The basis of a fattening ration should be corn meal with skim milk or sour milk. A porridge made up of a mash with corn meal as a basis and a mixture of several other grains has been found to be a satisfactory fattening ration. Even while being given the porridge the chicks should be supplied with fresh water twice each day.

American Legion News

Good-by Broadway, Hello France, song relic of the late war, will again be sung when 250 members of the American Legion sail August 3 from New York for a tour of the erstwhile battle-centers of France. To experience the "grand and glorious" feeling of going to France without having to worry about getting shot, is the dream of nearly every member of the former A. E. F. This desire to return to the old battle fronts is indicated by the rapidity with which the quota for the Legion's pilgrimage is being filled. John G. Wicker, Jr., chairman of the pilgrimage arrangements committee, has opened headquarters at 627 West Forty-third street, New York, and is daily receiving telegrams and letters requesting reservations. Representatives for the trip are selected through the various state departments of the Legion. Expenses are borne by the individual members of the party, except in cases of local posts defraying expenses of representatives selected by them. It will require about six weeks to make the trip, including sailing time. An elaborate program of events in honor of the Legion pilgrimage has been announced by French government.

"No man has a monopoly on fame and fortune. No man, group of men or governmental system can bar the individual from his inalienable right to progress," writes Judge Kennisaw Mountain Landis, in the current issue of the American Legion Weekly.

The quota of American Legion members who next month will join in the Legion's pilgrimage to the battlefields of France is rapidly being filled. Every state will be represented on the trip and applications for reservations are being made through the various state departments. Two of the early reservations were for the Legionnaires who will represent the "Lost Battalion" of the 308th Infantry and the 107th Infantry of the Twenty-seventh Division. The representatives will be enlisted men chosen by popular vote.

Brigadier-General Asher Miner, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who lost a leg in France, was one of the speakers at the banquet tendered by the New York Shipbuilding Corporation on the occasion of the trial trip of the new liner, "American Legion." General Miner was responding to Major General Price, of Philadelphia, who told how his compatriot, after losing his leg agreed to go before his men for moral effect. "The loss of that leg," declared General Miner, "is justified by the privilege of being a member of the American Legion."

Service bureaus of the American Legion have become accustomed to unusual requests, but the one received recently by the bureau at Omaha, Neb., is unique. The request came over the telephone from the possessor of a sweet feminine voice. "I would like to borrow two of your ex-service men for the evening," said the voice. "They are to be escorts in a theatre party." The request was complied with.

The members will encourage clean, patriotic living in their communities, irrespective of party, politics, race or creed. The organization will be affiliated with the American Legion. The headquarters will be at Fort Myers.

Charles W. Bartlett, chairman of the distinguished visitors committee of the national convention of the American Legion, will go to France next month as a member of the commission to represent Missouri in the purchase of a site for a memorial in France to Missouri's soldier dead. While in France Mr. Bartlett will call upon Marshall Foch and extend to him personally the written invitation of the Legion at Kansas City October 31st, and November 1st and 2nd.

Early Plowing Gives Best Wheat Results

Experiences of Kentucky wheat growers agree with experiments in showing that best results in growing the crop are obtained by plowing land which is to be broken between the middle of July and the first of September, according to Prof. George Roberts, head of the soils and crops department of the College of Agriculture. Early preparation of the seed bed gives a more compact bed, a necessity for wheat, it prevents the escape of moisture and develops more available plant food, according to the specialist.

"Farmers have found that it is generally advisable to disc ahead of the plow in preparing the seed bed for wheat. This practice gives a better pulverized bed which firms down in better shape. In breaking it is well to use a harrow or other clod-crushing implement on each day's plowing before the clods dry out and become hard. After the ground is broken it should be harrowed following a rain in order to break up the crust which forms. Just before the seed is drilled it is a good plan to run a tooth harrow over the soil, followed by a roller. This should be followed immediately by the drill.

"Ordinarily, plowing for wheat is not to be advised on soil where wheat follows a cultivated crop such as corn, tobacco or beans. If such soil is plowed it does not have an opportunity of firming down properly. It is only necessary to obtain enough loose, well-cultivated soil to cover the seed."

Somebody sent the editor of the Fairholt Gazette a few bottles of raisin-jack on the same day that he received for publication a wedding announcement and a notice of an auction sale. In that day's issue appeared the following: "Wm. Smith and Miss Lucy Anderson were disposed of at public auction at my farm one mile south of a beautiful cluster of roses on her breast and two white calves, before a background of farm implements, too numerous to mention in the presence of about 60 guests, including two milk cows, six mules and one bob-sled. Rev. Jackson tied the nuptial knot with 200 feet of hay rope and the bridal couple left on one good John Deere gang plow for an extended trip with terms to suit purchasers. They will be at home to their friends with one good baby buggy and a few kitchen utensils after ten months from date of sale to responsible parties and some fifty chickens."

NEPHEW OF CUSTER HERO ENGAGED FOR "MASSACRE"

When Marshall Neilan engaged the services of Dwight Crittenden to portray the part of General Custer in his spectacular picturization of "Bob Hampton of Placer" he did so for more reasons than because of the fact that Crittenden is a good actor.

Mr. Crittenden is the nephew of the late Captain J. J. Crittenden, a member of Custer's staff, who lost his life fighting at the side of the General in the famous "Last Stand" against the Sioux. This battle has been reproduced on the screen by Mr. Neilan as the big climax to his presentation of "Bob Hampton of Placer," which will be the attraction at the Tabb Theatre on next Wednesday.

As a result of his relationship to Captain Crittenden the Neilan actor has made the research in the life of General Custer and the incidents leading up to his famous battle, together with the customs of the people of the American frontiers in those days, his life's hobby.

Thus in the production of this film, which has as its basis various historical facts, Mr. Neilan found in Dwight Crittenden a valuable asset to the success of the picture. His makeup for the part of General Custer has been photographed and submitted to various other authorities on the subject who have not only endorsed it as being correct, but have stated that the resemblance is remarkably striking. Others in the all-star cast of this special are James Kirkwood in the title role; Wesley Barry, Marjorie Daw, Pat O'Malley, Noah Beery, Tom Gallery, Priscilla Bonner and others.

Ex-Senator Albert J. Beveridge is a good story teller as well as an effective orator. At a recent bar association dinner in his honor he illustrated his judgment of a situation, by telling of the man who tried to cross Michigan Avenue in Chicago in the face of a terrific wind off of the lake. The street was icy and when he slipped his feet went high and his hips low as he hit the sidewalk with a crash. Something wet was trickling down his leg. Hastily feeling toward his hip pocket he exclaimed, "Ye gods, I hope it's blood."

Our Job

Hours and Dollars

AN EDITORIAL ON ADVERTISING

WHAT we get for the sixty minutes in each hour and the hundred cents in each dollar depends largely upon our ability to Find Things!

Somebody in our family needs something all the time. Usually we all need many things!

The work of getting the dollars is only half the job of meeting these needs. "Here's the money—there's the need"—(or as much of it as the money will cover.)

BUT where's the Best Value for that money?

That's where comes in this matter of Finding Things. Can we only go around and ASK—or will people who really know, come to us and TELL US?

Thanks to the proved value of clean advertising they will. And thus, a moving picture of the most attractive values in many markets spreads itself before us in the pages of our "Key to the World"—our newspaper.

If we watch our newspaper closely—which means, of course, regular attention (such as a successful man gives to his business)—one by one, the things we need flash before our eyes at good values—and at reliable stores.

Thus builds up our knowledge of merchandise, of styles, grades and values.

Also of the best places to trade.

Whether our particular "job" is to earn the dollars, or to make them yield their greatest value, or both, we have the satisfaction of knowing that it is well done—not forgetting the time saved.

ONE prime reason why American families live better—have more comforts—is because this wonderful "moving picture of merchandise values," called Advertising, enables millions of us to get a greater value quicker and more regularly than the people of any other nation.

It brings ten thousand people to a store where five hundred would otherwise come, and you know it costs less per yard or per pound to sell a large volume of goods than it does to sell only a small volume.

BEST of all, the publishers, guard their pages from the faker and the "fly-by-night," and reliable houses know that they can only survive by telling us "the Truth in Advertising."

Thus, we continue to sharpen and increase our power to Find Things by a regular reading of Advertisements.

And we are truly thankful for this "value insurance," to our hours and dollars, this wonderful American idea of Advertising.

N. Middletown Man State Fair Judge

H. S. Caywood, North Middletown; James S. Boyd, Shelbyville, and C. C. Harris will be judges in the championship division of the $10,000 saddle horse stake of the Kentucky State Fair, September 12 to 17, it is announced in the fair association's catalogue, 20,000 copies of which have been printed and now are ready for distribution.

The $10,000 saddle horse stake, universally regarded, it is said, as the world's greatest saddle horse event, will be staged in four divisions—the stallion division, September 12; the mare division, September 13; the gelding division, September 14, and the championship division on the closing night of the fair, September 17th.

Announcement of the completion of the new $300,000 Merchants and Manufacturers' Building is made in the introduction to the catalogue, and in the catalogue proper thousands of dollars in premiums are listed in the various departments. Special attention is called by G. Carney Cross, secretary, to the babies' health contest, the racing program, presentation of The Arabian Nights in fireworks and to Al Wilson's airplane-changing act.

The discharged soldier hastened gladly home to see his wife. He found her polishing the kitchen stove, and slipped up quietly and put his arms around her. "Two qts. of milk and a pint of cream," she said, without looking up.

ELECTED CORRESPONDING SECRETARY

Dr. C. M. Thompson, well and favorably known here in religious circles, has been chosen by the Board of Kentucky Baptist Missions as their secretary. Dr. Thompson is pastor of the First Baptist church at Winchester, is doing a great work there and we feel this call will have only a passing consideration by him. For the Doctor to relinquish his work at Winchester at this time, putting it mildly, would be grievous. Interested, as we are in this work, we assume the liberty of a suggestion. We have in mind two ex-secretaries, Drs. Bowand Powell, that could take up the work at the point left off by Dr. Bryan and carry it on without the slightest interruption and we believe either of these brethren could and would advance the cause far more successfully than any stranger could. Then these brethren are settled and would not be using the position as an advancement. To us this is worth while, get settled and remain so. Dr. Thompson needs to labor where he is and should not be disturbed.

REFRESHING

Such a letter as this is really refreshing to the editor who at all times is heart and mind in his chosen field, grasping and handling and presenting to his people what is for their uplift, the greatest good for the greatest number. Here it is: "I want to thank you for the welcome visitor that comes to me twice a week. It is a letter from home. I peruse every line of it with abated breath, for my parents have passed their three score and ten, and more, they are growing feeble as they journey on and I know if any evil has overtaken them, some one of your news-gatherers would break the news to me through the Advocate. May you live long, dear editor, in your love mission." Such inspiring words are invigorating and make us glad that we have chosen the life work of gathering and disseminating news.

GRATITUDE

May we pause just a moment to reflect as we ask what is gratitude? Webster says it is "kindness awakened by a favor received." If a favor has been granted and for it is aroused a degree of thankfulness, that is gratitude, and if the favor is imparted and it is without response the person favored becomes an ingrate. Now to call a person an ingrate sounds ugly, but ask yourself the question, am I an ingrate? You can answer it for yourself. You are or you are not, and if you are you have made yourself so. Don't fail to propound the question and give the answer. There is a cure, and it is the way of thankfulness for favors received.

THIS IS THE KIND OF STUFF THAT MAKES FEARLESS OFFICIALS!

In Elliott county the grand jury did its duty when it returned 500 indictments for bootlegging and moonshining and Circuit Judge Cisco and Commonwealth Attorney Warren complied with their oaths when in the face of violent threats they went on fearlessly discharging their sworn duties. We commend such grit as was shown by them and advise the people generally to investigate the backbone of candidates before election day.

HOW TO VOTE FOR CITY COUNCILMEN

The voters will nominate 8 councilmen August 6. It will be by a vote from the entire city, not by wards, as was done formerly. There are eleven candidates asking for the nomination and the voter is to choose from this number eight persons and place an (X) in the square opposite the names of just eight and no more.

WATER !! WATER !!

Again we are asking our people to use the strictest economy in the use of water. It is necessary to cut off sprinkling, the watering of flowers and plants. Wash water and bath water can be substituted. Elsewhere is an advertisement, telling us what we may expect if we do not practice the strictest economy.

NORMA TALMADGE PLAY FILLED WITH SURPRISES

Norma Talmadge fans can be prepared for a surprise when they see their screen favorite in her new Select special "She Loves and Lies," for Miss Talmadge will reveal unexpected talents, being called upon to assume three roles that call for great versatility. No one ever suspected that she was an impersonator, but she is and proves it by handling three characterizations ranging from a young girl to an old woman of fifty-two.

She makes such a delightful old woman that she has no trouble in landing a young husband when she holds out a bag of gold as a temptation. It's a delightful surprise when she reveals herself as a woman much younger than herself who has only been masquerading.

"She Loves and Lies," adapted from the well known novel by Wilkie Collins, is replete with comedy situations and Miss Talmadge gets the best there is out of them. It will be shown at the Tabb Friday.

It is the heights of wisdom to foresee one's mercies, but the zenith of folly is to anticipate your miseries.

Earth's dearest pleasures, like its sweetest flowers, begin to wither as soon as plucked, but as is the floral realm so in the social world, new buds are coming all the time.

Business to Improve U. S. Retailers Told

Steady improvement in business conditions was predicted by Josiah Kirby, of Cleveland, in an address at the convention of National Association of Real Estate Boards. "We in America cannot now experience a sustained depression," he said. "All sustained depressions have for their background an over production of finished products and a shortage of natural wealth. Conditions at present are exactly reversed."

Entertained

On Thursday eight of the leading Shorthorn breeders of the State were entertained at dinner by Robinson Judy and wife at their beautiful Sycamore St. home, this city. Those present were J. H. Clay, Pisgah, Woodford county; A. C. Jewell and C. H. Bowyer, of Lexington; O. M. Johnson and J. P. Redmond, of Millersburg; L. M. Lebus, of Cynthiana, and B. A. Thomas and Geo. Woodruff, of Shelbyville. The occasion for the presence of these gentlemen was to witness the exhibition at the Montgomery County Fair one of, if not the very best rings of Shorthorn and Herefords that have ever met in any competitive ring. This collection of fine individuals at this day was a real wonder to these breeders of fine cattle.

Pedigreed stock is returning to stay, was the one mind of these gentlemen. They were pleased not only with the cattle show, but other competitive rings as well. The admiration of these business men was not confined to the Fair or our trotting and running races, but to the general appearance of thrift, with which they were impressed. Had their been pessimists in this crowd of enterprising men the prosperous spirits manifested here would have caused the pessimist to become an optimist of the good old days of thrift. Mrs. Judy, on this occasion, as she is on all others, gave evidence of her Baseom and Berry lineage, when the eyes viewed a table groaning under the delicious palatable freely given, according to the proverbial hospitality of the real Kentuckian. This, with her distinctive Southern mannerism and grace, gave to these prosperous farmers a sphere of greater worth than that of kings and priests of which we read. The farmer is fast returning to his own and the day will soon dawn when moneyed combines will be as toys to their irresistible forces and the live stock, the cereals, the tobacco, and everything that comes from the earth will be measured in value according to the laws of supply and demand.

Seal, Volstead, Refuses to Drink

Volstead, the seal recently born at the aquarium, New York, is dead. Some said it died because there was not enough water; others declared death came because the youngster refused to drink from a bottle. The day it was born the mother rescued it from the furious father. After that she neglected to feed her off-spring and the infant scorned a bottle offered by attendants.

There was no way to amend the seal's constitution so it could live without drink.

U. S. Bureau of Markets
Washington, D. C., July 21.

Hay—Eastern hay markets firm and about $1 higher than one week ago. Receipts and stocks light. Central western markets weak and are mostly in buyers' favor. Feed—Wheat feeds fairly firm, but easier tendency is noted in the quotations for future shipment. Kansas mills asking $17 for hard bran for July shipment and $16.25 for 30-day shipments. Country trade not taking hold as expected and market in resellers hands at mills sold heavily to jobbers last few weeks. Oil meals firm, sales very light. Hominy feed 50¢@1 lower. Gluten feed and alfalfa meal unchanged. Stocks and receipts fair. Quoted bran, $14; middlings, $14; linseed meal, $34.50 Minneapolis; white hominy feed, $22 St. Louis; 36 per cent cottonseed meal $36.50 Memphis; gluten feed $28.50 Chicago; No. 1 alfalfa meal $19 Kansas City.

Grain—Markets firm and higher first two days of week, mainly because of unfavorable crop returns and reports that rust and blight were increasing especially in the Northwest. Public buying was also a factor. Prices declined on the 16th with trade evening up. This continued through the 18th, when overbought buying fell off and the market became unsettled with trade only fair, and mostly local. County offerings were not large during the week. Tired

"I was weak and run-down," relates Mrs. Eula Burnett, of Dalton, Ga. "I was thin and just felt tired, all the time. I didn't rest well. I wasn't ever hungry. I knew, by this, I needed a tonic, and as there is none better than—

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

... I began using Cardui," continues Mrs. Burnett. "After my first bottle, I slept better and ate better. I took four bottles. Now I'm well, feel just fine, eat and sleep, my skin is clear and I have gained and sure feel that Cardui is the best tonic ever made."

Thousands of other women have found Cardui just as Mrs. Burnett did. It should help you.

Making Two New Fools

Mr. American Citizen, whoever you are, try to provide as well as you can for your daughter or daughters, but let "the boy" provide for himself. Anyway, that is what you will do if you want your son to be a real man.

There is not a rich man who made his money by his own efforts who isn't glad, by the eternal, that he was not born rich. He knows that if he had been brought up to wealth he wouldn't have had half the fun in life—none of the pleasure of achievement—that has been his. He knows that great usefulness in life is not only a distinction but a personal joy. And as he looks abroad at the lives of wealthy men who got their money from their fathers he congratulates himself on his great good luck that he had to make his.

As a well-known American writer remarks: "Taking care of wealth and spending it is a business in itself." The average young man who is given all the money he wants has too much to do spending it and doing the things in life that wealth and "possession" are supposed to demand. When middle life comes he realizes the futility of it all, but it is too late. The golden hours when the ambition for achievement flows the strongest in the blood have passed.

Nobody knows better the joy of doing things, of being a real man of action, than the man who becomes rich through his own efforts. Nobody knows better than he the failure of that joy in the man who was brought up to wealth. He knows it so well that, of course, he makes "the boy" go out and work for his wealth and place in life. Does he not?

No he does not! The average father who is self-made, gives that son of his money he wants, and thus plants two fools on the face of the earth—himself and his boy.

Livestock Association Circular Distributed

A new circular dealing with the organization and management of livestock shipping associations is being distributed by the College of Agriculture to farmers of Kentucky who are interested in forming such associations. The publication states that livestock shipping associations have furnished a cheaper method of marketing livestock, have saved their patrons actual dollars and cents and for that reason have been successful and extended over a vast territory within a period of a few years. Co-operative shipping has placed the farmer in more intimate touch with market conditions and demands in many communities have resulted in an increase in the amount of stock raised and an improvement in its quality.

There are a few livestock shipping associations in Kentucky at the present time, the circular states, and the interest which is being displayed indicates that a number of others will be formed in the near future.

To operate successfully an association must have sufficient business, efficient management and the loyal support of its members at all times, according to the publication. It takes up in detail the method of organizing an association, how the organization operates and several other subjects of special interest to farmers who ship live stock. The publication was written by O. B. Gessner, chief of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station section of Markets and D. G. Card, a member of the section. The circular is No. 104 and may be obtained free by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

Accident at Midway

On last Thursday evening at the Midway a reckless auto driver ran over the little four-year-old daughter of William Henrich, painfully bruising the right hip and lacerating the abdomen. The same driver caught the heel of Gano, the six-year-old son of Mr. Henrich. The injury was slight. The escape from death of the little girl was close.

A married woman can have a good time thinking about the good times she might have had.

Akron Man, Restored By Tanlac Year Ago, Says He's Felt Fine Ever Since

"Tanlac will certainly do the work, for it set me right more than a year ago and I have been in the best of health ever since," said Edward J. Bates, 807 Amherst Street, Akron, Ohio.
"I was all run down and under the weather before I got hold of Tanlac," he explained. "My appetite was practically gone and nothing tasted right. My nerves were all on edge and I could not half sleep. I was constipated and had to be taking something all the time for that as well as my other troubles. Of mornings I felt so weak and fagged out I could hardly make it off to work, and all through the day it seemed like I would give clear out.
"But it's a fact Tanlac fixed me up in less than a month's time. Why, I was surprised at the way I commenced improving. My appetite came back and I started picking up in weight and just simply felt better all round. All my troubles soon left and Tanlac built me up so well that to this day I have been feeling fine. I am all the time recommending Tanlac to some of my friends, for I know it is a medicine that can be counted on."

ROMANCE OF CORN American Indian Christened the Cereal the "Friend of Man"

Mondamin—"Friend of Man" is the name given to America's wonderful cereal, corn, by the American Indian, and its tremendous influence in the upbuilding of our country not only justifies the name, but forces recognition of the remarkable foresight of the Red Man.
It is to the imaginative Obijway that we are indebted for a beautiful legend of the origin of corn, and according to this legend, for corn itself.
Ambitions for the advancement of his people, one of their leaders sought seclusion in the forest, and during a period of fasting and prayer appealed to The Master of Life for help to check the destructive wars among the nations. After seven days, Mondamin, a messenger from the Great Spirit appeared and for four days this leader wrestled with him and defeating him, buried the body under the leafy mold where it fell.
Through the whispering trees came the command from above to keep the soil loose and free from weeds above the resting place of the conquered spirit, and in a short time spears of green sprang up and with the autumn coloring came the ripened grain that was to be the food of the Indian forever. No longer was it necessary for them to depend for subsistence upon wild grains and game—the Great Spirit had supplied them with a wonderfully nourishing cereal, that mixed in equal parts with dried meat sustained them in the arduous physical undertakings demanded by primitive mode of living. Corn was the answer to the prayers for help in the advancement of the race.
Mondamin is still the "Friend of Man," but it appears to be sadly neglected by the present generation, possibly through ignorance of its nourishing qualities as a foodstuff and its cheapness—Tom Chivington for the Corn Bulletin.

GREAT PRIZE RACE CLOSES NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT

WHAT TIME MAILED—Must reach the campaign manager before the closing hours of the various vote offers if you expect them to be applied on these last vote offers. Otherwise, their vote value will be determined by the offer in force at the time they are received.

The Limit is Off

For Thursday's issue contestants may poll as many votes as they choose. The limit is now off. While it is a good idea to poll a sufficient number of votes to place your standing up among the leaders so that your friends will know you are working, it is also wise not to draw too heavily on your reserve votes, for you will need them all in the end.

Last Count By Manager

The campaign manager will make his final count at 1 P. M., Thursday, July 28th, for that day's paper, and all votes clipped from the paper must be deposited in the ballot box before that hour.

Immediately after he makes his final count the ballot box will be locked and sealed and the key turned over to the judges, who will be selected from prominent men in this section. The final few days' voting will be entirely in their charge. So you can rest assured that any votes you place in the ballot box after 1 P. M., next Thursday will not be seen by anyone until the judges open the box after the contest is all over and commence the work of counting the votes.

50-Vote Coupons

All 50-vote coupons clipped from the paper, no matter when mailed, must reach the campaign manager before his final count at 1 P. M., Thursday. Otherwise they will be of no value.

Regarding Store Votes

All vote orders and the 10-vote coupons given on purchases at the various stores will be accepted right up until 8 o'clock Saturday night—under the following conditions:

Do Not Deposit Store Votes
Do not deposit store votes in the ballot box after 1 P. M., Thursday. Bring them to the Campaign manager after that day and hour and exchange for vote certificate before depositing in ballot box. This applies to both store vote orders and the 10-vote coupons given on purchases.

Last Important Details

We want every contestant to read the closing details very carefully, and if there is any point you do not understand, consult the campaign manager immediately. We should dislike to see any candidate lose votes and subscriptions because she failed to understand the closing details. So, read carefully, for there is bound to be a rush on the last day.

The Advocate's big Prize Campaign will close at 8 o'clock NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT, JULY 30TH. Subscriptions will be accepted from candidates and their friends who are inside of the office at that hour, but no one will be allowed to enter thereafter to turn in subscriptions and votes.

All Subscriptions—NO MATTER WHAT TIME MAILED—Must reach the campaign manager before the closing hour Saturday night. Otherwise they cannot be counted.

All reserve votes (Vote Ballots issued on subscriptions, club offers, etc.)—NO MATTER WHAT TIME MAILED—Must reach the campaign manager before the closing hour on Saturday night, or they cannot be counted by the judges.

Send back all reserve votes, so they will reach the campaign department before 8 P. M., July 30th. If you send them after 1 P. M., on Thursday, July 28th, they will be deposited in the ballot box to your credit and will only be counted by the judges after the campaign closes. If you are coming to Mt. Sterling on the closing day it is advisable to deposit the reserve votes in the ballot box yourself.

By reserve votes we mean the ballots which have been issued on subscriptions, club offers, etc., and mailed back to you. Seal vote ballots in envelopes bearing your name before depositing in the ballot box. Place about 25 ballots or less in each envelope so they will go through the slot in the ballot box.

Don't take any chance of the mail being delayed—it may cause you to lose a prize if you do. Mail in plenty of time so they will reach us before the closing hour of the campaign. All votes and subscriptions—no matter what time mailed—must reach us before the closing hour of the campaign in order to be counted.

Don't slack up now—from present indications it is going to be a neck-and-neck race right up until the closing hour and just a few subscriptions—possibly those you secure the last few days—may be the ones that will win the very prize you most desire.

Subscriptions will be accepted right up until the closing hour of the campaign.

Votes are positively not transferable and they will not be sold. They can only be secured on subscriptions and on store purchases. When a contestant drops out of the race, she loses all votes to her credit. Every ballot must bear the name of some candidate. Do not ask to have ballots issued in blank, for we will not do so. Scratched, torn or altered ballots will be promptly discarded.

Be sure to have the subscriptions in proper shape to hand into the campaign department. Have the name, address and amount of the subscription written plainly on the regular campaign receipt. If you have no receipt book, ask the campaign manager for them. And be sure you have your receipt filled out before you come to the office.

Prize ballots for all four periods will be given to the contestants at 6 P. M., July 30th, or if they are not present will be deposited into the ballot box in time to be counted in the final count.

Produce Review

A larger supply of eggs than required for current use has resulted in some being placed in storage, and lower markets in producing and consuming centers. The quality is not generally satisfactory, due to the weather conditions, which emphasizes the necessity for greater care of eggs on the farm and more frequent marketing.

Butter production is keeping up remarkably well, considering weather conditions, and the market in Chicago is closing with a little easier tone.

Receipts of poultry have been liberal, and markets are generally quoted on a lower basis, resulting in lower prices for live poultry in the country.

Take it from us, sister: "The wages of sin is death," and she who paces the primrose path will get her's as surely as night follows. You can no more miss it than you can blot out the spots of the leopard.

Since there are more ignorant than wise men in the world and more ignorant than wisdom even in the wise, it is consistent to seek notoriety anywhere.

Love is eternal as it is real. The thing that died was but a counterfeit.
